“Building Supplies for Education” is a charitable program designed and implemented by the Community Affairs Committee of the Citrus County Builders Association. With the extraordinary donation of 100 backpacks from BB&T Bank the committee members, including Gold Crest’s Community Liason Anjela Wright, eagerly went about the task of collecting enough school supplies to fill each bag. It is estimated that roughly $25 worth of pens, pencils, paper and more was placed in every backpack. Using press releases to announce the program to the community, students in need were identified and a Back-to-School Bash with games and refreshments was held just prior to the start of the school year. All 100 of the backpacks found their way into schools around the county.
