

Gold Crest Homes has been a member in good standing with the Citrus County Builders Association for more than 17 years. The public perception of a “Builders Association” typically seems to be a vision of a bunch of rough-and-tumble guys throwing back a few beers on a Friday night, exchanging ideas about how to sell more homes.

It’s a perception that couldn’t be further from the truth. By and large the CCBA membership is comprised of serious businessmen and women who care deeply about the future of their community and their industry. There are weekly and monthly meetings of committees that do everything from keeping a finger on the pulse of the community by meeting with local government officials to planning Christmas parties for the less fortunate children of the county.

The Citrus County Builders Association organizes fishing tournaments, golf outings, home and outdoor expos, and the Parade of Homes. Members can be found at meetings of the Green Building Council, whose motto is: Building a Better Nature Coast. The Education for the Future Committee works to provide the educational tools needed for our youth and secondary students to achieve their goals. Recently the CCBA Education for the Future Committee proudly announced the creation of three new chapters of the Future Builders of America program.

At Gold Crest Homes we aren’t CCBA members in name only. We participate by committing several hours of our week to these committees:

- ~ Government Affairs
- ~ Membership Committee
- ~ Green Building Council
- ~ Builders Care
- ~ Board of Directors

Our commitment to the Association is founded on the principle that by joining forces with others, we can achieve better things for all of Citrus County.
